A continued commitment to sustainable development and humanitarian assistance in Palestine

Mission Statement

As a leading Palestinian non-governmental development organization, the Welfare Association is dedicated to making a distinguished contribution toward furthering the progress of the Palestinians, preserving their heritage and identity, supporting their living culture and building civil society. It aims to achieve these goals by methodically identifying Palestinian needs and priorities and establishing sound mechanisms in order to maximize benefits from the available funding resources.

In Memoriam

Dr. Yousef Sayigh [1916-2004]

Welfare Association Board of Trustees Honorary Member Eminent economist, researcher and critic, and an important member of the intellectual vanguard of the Palestinian movement throughout his life.

Dr. Yousef Abdullah Sayigh was a distinguished economist and strategist, and a preeminent member of the intellectual vanguard of the Palestinian national movement in the Diaspora. Born in Palestine in 1916, he lived most of his life in Lebanon in exile. He obtained his BA from AUB, MA in economics and PhD in political economy from Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Sayigh was a member of the faculty of AUB for almost 20 years, and an economic advisor to a number of leading Arab and Palestinian economic institutions. He was honored as the Distinguished Visiting Scholar at the Oxford Institute for Energy Studies in 1984-85. He authored 15 books on economic development and policy and more than 50 scholarly articles in Arabic and English. Most recently he had supervised the $12 billion Palestinian Economic Development Plan (1993-2000) which constituted a development blueprint for a Palestinian state.

He was a vocal advocate for Palestinian rights. As a member of the Board of Trustees of Welfare Association, he served as a leading light over the past 10 years for the Lebanon program.

Dr. Sayigh belongs to a generation that the Palestinians will miss for its wisdom, commitment and perseverance.

Acknowledgments

Welfare Association extends a special Award of Appreciation to the

Arab Fund for Economic and Social Development

for its significant contributions in 2003 to emergency support and sustainable development in Palestine and for its distinguished and ongoing commitment to the region. The Award was announced in Dubai at the 20th anniversary conference of Welfare Association in December, and presented to Mr. Abdiatif al-Hamad, Chairman of the Board of Directors and Director-General of the Arab Fund, in Kuwait by members of the WA's Board of Trustees.

Welfare Association would also like to acknowledge the generosity of the following organizations, corporations and individuals for their contributions during 2003. Their generous support for Welfare Association has made possible the implementation of hundreds of emergency assistance and development projects by Palestinian non-governmental organizations for the benefit and sustainability of the Palestinian people.

Message from the Director-General

In 2003, despite efforts by the Welfare Association and other organizations to redress part of the damage caused by Israeli incursions, re-occupation, closures and destruction, the occupied Palestinian territories entered a phase of de-development. Statistics show that about 70% of the population are now below the poverty line, 50% of working age people are not only unemployed but have lost hope of finding jobs and almost 2.5 million are barely surviving on under $2 per day. Approximately 40% of the population are estimated to have reduced both quantity and quality food intake and half the Palestinian population is unable to access their usual health services due to lack of security, closures and curfews. Twenty two percent of casualties were among Palestinian children. Gaza and especially Rafah was very hard hit with hundreds of homes being systematically demolished near the border with Egypt. During military reinvasions, the historic core of the city of Nablus saw further damage, in addition to demolitions in refugee camps in the West Bank.

In response to these increasingly dire circumstances, the Welfare Association intensified its fundraising activities to meet the emergency needs of Palestinians for basic provisions, humanitarian relief, education and jobs. On the other hand, its ongoing development programs and projects for civil society institutions continued at a higher level of implementation, better efficiency in management and supervision of funds, and a wider range of programs and projects. Committed funds from external donors also increased due to WA's established international credibility.

About 50% of project disbursements handled by the Programs and Projects Department in 2003 was directed toward meeting special emergency needs, such as completing the first phase of the 20-million-dollar program funded by Arab financial institutions and managed on their behalf by the Arab Fund for Economic and Social Development in support of 11 Palestinian universities and 22 colleges. In addition to starting of the rehabilitation of damaged buildings and infrastructure projects, WA's Programs and Projects Committee closely supervised the Association's assessment of emergency needs, development and relief priorities and emergency proposals. New staff were hired to work with existing core staff in a decentralized organizational framework to handle the expanding work load and regional field work. In addition, a new Research and Planning Department was established to ensure that intervention decisions by WA are research linked and based on priority development and sustenance needs. To ensure compliance and contribute to quality improvement, an Internal Auditor post was also created.

Alongside its commitment to meeting some emergency needs, the Welfare Association has been able to provide well-targeted quality development projects to Palestinians through adherence to its vision and commitment to sustainable development. Through this increasingly important role within Palestinian society, WA has been able to continue its support for civil society's contributions towards the state-building process in Palestine. At the same time, the Welfare Association continued to provide support for Palestinians living within the Green Line and in Lebanon.

Thus, despite the escalating obstacles and difficulties within Palestine in 2003, its 20th anniversary year that was commemorated with the "Palestine Tomorrow" conference in Dubai in December 2003, WA has managed to demonstrate a growing commitment to the Palestinian people through accomplishing a quantum leap with regards to its development role by increasing project disbursement from approximately $5 million in 1998 to $34 million in 2003 and improving the quality of its interventions.

Programs and Projects

2003 was the most remarkable year in terms of Welfare Association's grant assistance for Palestinian community organizations in its 20-year history. Nearly $34 million in funds from diverse donors and individual contributions was channeled to Palestinians through more than 300 projects. 170 of these projects were supervised and monitored through the Programs and Projects Department. In addition, separate management structures directly implemented technical projects through WA special programs: the Old City of Jerusalem Revitalization Program (OCJRP), the Palestinian NGO Project (PNGO), Information Technology for Youth Project (IT4Y), and the Emergency Employment Generation Program (EEGP)

CONTRACTOR AND STREET

Programs and Projects Department

Working under the direction of the Programs and Projects Committee, the Programs and Projects Department (PPD) supervises projects within Welfare Association's main program tracks of Human Resource Development, Culture and Identity, Institution Building and Assistance for Palestinians in Lebanon. PPD staff work closely with NGOs and other organizations to monitor and supervise implementation, build and develop capacity and assist organizations in making quality improvements in their activities. Since 2000, the PPD has also handled assistance through Emergency Programs, helping to establish criteria to ensure that such assistance reaches the needlest, monitoring construction and procurement procedures for services and supplies and guaranteeing efficient and rapid disbursement of humanitarian aid. In 2003, the PPD monitored the implementation of 170 projects and disbursed $22,088,399.

The Palestinian NGO Project (PNGO) 1997-2005

The PNGO Project has been operating since 1997 to assist NGOs in delivering services to poor and marginalized sectors, to improve their capabilities and to strengthen the working relationship between NGOs and the Palestinian National Authority.

The project was supported primarily by the World Bank, with contributions from Italy, Saudi Arabia, Canada and others. Welfare Association is the lead member in the consortium with the British Council and Charities Aid Foundation that acts as the Project Management Organization (PMO). The Project awards development grants, block grants to larger NGOs and funds research activities on the non-profit sector, according to a competitive selection process. It also subcontracts for capacity-building training of NGO staff. The PMO is responsible for daily management, with oversight by the Steering Committee and the Supervisory Board. The World Bank is charged with ensuring that the Project operates as designed.

Following the success of Phase I, the World Bank approved an additional three-year project (2001-2004), extended to mid-August 2005 in light of current political conditions, and a budget of $19.70 million. An additional allocation of $5.70 million was made by the Agence Francaise de Developpement and further emergency components of $3.20 million were also added to the project, bringing the total budget to around $28.60 million. (See page 29)

The Old City of Jerusalem Revitalization Program

In 1994, the Welfare Association established The Old City of Jerusalem Revitalization Program (OCJRP), with primary funding from the Arab Fund for Economic and Social Development, as part of its efforts to protect the cultural heritage and community in the Old City of Jerusalem. The Program's overall purpose is to preserve the religious and cultural heritage of the Old City and use building improvements to stimulate the community's productive reuse of historic buildings.

A special technical unit began operating in 1995, designing and implementing projects for the revitalization of the Old City through the rehabilitation of housing and related services, preservation of cultural, historical and religious monuments and improvement of residents' living standards. The Program also trains architects and contractors in restoration techniques, maintains a documentation center, carries out a community awareness program and issues publications on architectural heritage.

Basic Program Tracks

FILE OF THE START

I. Human Resource Development

In 2003, the Programs and Projects Department (PPD) and the PNGO Project supervised the implementation of 47 projects in the field of Human Resource Development. The projects involved the construction of schools and educational facilities for NGOs, provision of educational material, supporting the operational costs of educational institutions and developing civil society's capabilities through training courses and workshops. Welfare Association continues to support efforts by non-governmental organizations to expand and update vocational education and training, non-formal education in community centers, and in-service training for teachers, technicians and professionals.

A. Education

1. Early Childhood Education

In 2003, WA funded the establishment of six model preschools and the upgrading of other preschool facilities operated by NGOs in the West Bank and Gaza. In addition, the PNGO Project supported 13 NGO projects in early childhood, focusing on training preschool teachers and developing infrastructure that also generated short-term jobs for out-of-work laborers.

2. Basic Education

90 000

A special school construction program in Nablus, funded by the dty's Diaspora community to help alleviate the shortage of classrooms and school overcrowding, succeeded in completing four new schools in time for the 2003/04 school year: the Salahiya secondary school, Abdul- Rahim Jardaneh primary school, Burhan Kamal secondary school and Naim Abdul Hadi school. The cost of the school building program amounted to $2.15 million to which WA will make an additional contribution of $100,000 to provide computer labs and IT teacher training for the four schools.

The schools will be maintained by the municipality and staffed by the Ministry of Education.

3. Higher Education

Grants were made to a number of higher education institutions for improving infrastructure and/or services: al-Quds University to develop its Medical School ($20,000), improve the University's Old City-based Community Center ($89,000) and support the University's operational costs ($25,000); Birzelt University to support computer training for the disabled ($20,000) and to begin construction of a building to house the Institute of Women's Studies ($50,000). The PNGO Project made grants of $56,000 to Hebron University and Khadoury Agricultural College to rehabilitate and renovate buildings damaged by Israeli shelling.

B. Non-Formal Education

The $1 million Sheikh Mohammad Bin Rashed Al Maktourn Children's Cultural Center in Hebron was inaugurated on December 4, 2003, through a satellite link between Hebron and Dubai, as part of Welfare Association's 20th anniversary event in the UAE. WA worked with the Hebron Municipality in finishing the complex, which is designed as a model multi-use center, and features a 400-seat theater, library, and computer center, as well as activity and music rooms. A children's park has already been incorporated into the grounds around the center. WA will equip and furnish the computer center and will establish a mobile library and educational unit for outreach to villages. The complex will host local schools and NGOs in the southern West Bank as a venue for children's theatre, IT and cultural activities and is expected to be fully functional by summer 2004.

The PNGO Project contributed almost $1 million to support non-formal education projects in the West Bank and Gaza Strip implemented by 11 NGOs; the projects include building and/or expanding centers, designing educational programs and adult literacy.

C. Information Technology Skills for Youth

Over the past four years, WA has significantly expanded its work in developing access to and training in information technology for Palestinians. It has supported the construction and equipping of labs, provision of educational materials and development of curriculum, teaching and vocational training of IT in school settings, community and training centers, and introduced IT from preschool level to university libraries. Most of the support has been complemented by grants and contracts from the private sector and international IT development companies for equipment and training assistance, and in partnership with the International Youth Foundation.

The $4 million IT4Youth project --- a four-year project due to be completed in 2004 and turned over to a Joint Council --- brought computer technology to schools and communities in 11 villages in the rural West Bank. This pilot project was developed jointly by WA and the International Youth Foundation and funded by USAID's Community Services Program with the aim of enhancing the learning skills, creativity and employability of Palestinian youth, aged 10-24. Computer labs were installed in 14 rural schools and a regional IT center for youth was established for out-of-school access. As a result, over 4,000 young people are being trained annually in the villages in computer-based information technology.

(See Inset page 17)

The Futurekids training program continues to be an important part of Welfare's IT initiatives involving children. The program is being extended to four private schools in the Ramallah-Jerusalem area, benefiting approximately 5,000 children. Training courses are being provided also for the parents of children trainees at the Futurekids center in Ramallah and a new curriculum was developed for teaching Internet access and utilization.

The WA-sponsored Intel Computer Clubhouse in Ramallah, the first of its kind in the Arab Middle East, serves underprivileged children and youth (aged 10-18 years) from the three surrounding refugee camps of Qaddura, al-Am'ari and Qalandia and students from al-Bireh and Ramallah.

The high-tech clubhouse and mentoring methodology develops computer-based creative design skills of youth from poor and underserved areas. Membership has exceeded the target number of 400 supported by 12 volunteer mentors.

Computer centers were established at: Dar al-Fatah al-Laji'a Girls' School in Jerusalem, benefiting more than 200 female students annually; Hamdi Manco Children's Cultural Center in Nablus in cooperation with Nablus Municipality; and al-Quds University (final phase of a $300,000 project).

The Center of Excellence at Birzeit University or the Bizreh Project brings quality e-learning to Palestine in an innovative project initiated by Birzeit and WA. The Project is to develop generic e-learning academic programs that are scientific in nature and not dependent on geographic, social or political contexts such as basic engineering, sciences, or economics. Bizreh will "match-make" between trainees and e-learning providers or support the delivery of existing e-learning content by procuring existing e-learning resources, by developing new generic material, or by customizing e-content ("localization") for the region. Translating into Arabic is an obvious task involved in localization, but also content is modified to fit the local culture, or socio-economic, political and technical contexts. The project target population will include school students (through curriculum support and life skills training), university students at all levels, and adult continuing education. The Center will also cooperate with the Euromed Virtual University, currently in the planning stage, which joins WA and two Palestinian universities with partners in the region.

IT4Youth Project (2001-2004)

The 4-year IT4Youth project, supported by IYF/USAID, is being implemented in a cluster of 11 villages and hamlets with a population of 30,000 in the Nablus and Jenin districts (Silet ad-Daher, Jaba, Fundaqumiya, Attara, Asa'sa, Burqa, Bizariya, Beit Imrin, Sebastiya, Nisf Jbeil and Ijnisinya. There is high unemployment and few services in these agricultural communities: The program annually targets 4,000 rural students and youth aged 10-24, IT and other teachers, and parents and adult community members. The IT4Youth program has already built positive attitudes towards technology among students.

In 2003, completion of the Regional
IT Center involved installation of a music room, computer software and furniture for a computer clubhouse that serves approximately 50youth a day with Internet access, computer games, educational programs and vocational training. The program has completed the IT4Youth website, at www.it4youth.org

Despite sometimes overwhelming logistical problems in accessing the villages and working during constant movement restrictions, the program made very good progress and has been cited by the Ministry of Education as a model pilot project. Training and other elements will be adapted in other Ministry programs to promote IT education and the use of computers to improve learning outcomes. The Project, which ends in mid-2004, has been short-listed for an international award in Best Practices by the UN-HABITAT and Dubai

Municipality.

II. Culture and Identity

Welfare Association is one of the few donor organizations that have committed themselves to developing the cultural sector, an area where "impact" may be difficult to measure but that nurtures a society in deep and invaluable ways. The Welfare Association has been assisting NGOs, especially in rural and under-served areas such as the Galilee and Naqab, to build their capacities and expand programs to help local communities preserve their culture and identity, including activities promoting Arabic language and literature, traditional arts, music, extracurricular activities, cultural exchange and architectural heritage. In 2003, the total number of disbursements for the culture and identity program exceeded $600,000.

THE PROPERTY OF STREET

Among the cultural projects, WA awarded a development grant to the Handicrafts Center at the Sidreh Society for Community Development in Lakiya in the Naqab. Funds were utilized to transform traditional skills into employability and earning power for 220 Bedouin women, which also keeps alive an important part of Bedouin heritage. The women were provided training courses in spinning and dyeing wool from the native Awassi sheep, setting looms and weaving the distinctive Bedouin striped carpets. The training included modernizing marketing opportunities, such as via the internet. See www.lakiya.org.

In the Galilee, two children's libraries were established in the villages of Kufr Kanna and Jdaldet al-Makr where 10 training courses for children were held in computer and internet skills in addition to school curriculum subjects.

During the year, WA also supported the filming of a documentary on the Palestinian villages evacuated in 1948, the renovation of the Arab Heritage Museum at Dar al-Tifl al-Arabi in Jerusalem and the development of the Abasan Rural Heritage Society's infrastructure in Gaza.

House Rehabilitation

In the old cities of Jaffa and Acca and other towns inhabited by Palestinian families, the poor conditions of the buildings often force migration out of the area. WA worked with local committees to help residents repair their homes as part of a cost-sharing scheme. In 2003, 30 houses sheltering 36 families in Jaffa, Haifa and Acca were rehabilitated at a total cost of $32,600.

III. Jerusalem

The unique history and unresolved status of Jerusalem creates a variety of problems threatening its Arab-Islamic/Christian culture and identity and the security of the Arab population and the indigenous Palestinian institutions that serve them. Jerusalem has been a special focus for Welfare Association, both programmatically and in fundraising efforts. WA interventions in East Jerusalem aim at promoting Palestinian residents' survival and steadfastness, and enhancing culture and identity through education and training, architectural restoration and artistic festivals, and supporting other NGO services.

THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF TH

Since 1994, the Old City of Jerusalem Revitalization Program (OCJRP) has been the Welfare Association's main intervention program in Jerusalem (see insert). In addition, WA support for NGO projects in the city in 2003 included the rehabilitation of the national Museum of Heritage at Dar el-Tifl el-Arabi, the establishment of a computer center at Fatah al-Laji'a school, implementation of the final phase of developing the computer center at al-Quds University, and support for the publication of the Jerusalem Statistical Yearbook by the Palestinian Central Bureau of Statistics.

The Old City

of Jerusalem Revitalization Program (OCJRP)

The buildings within the walls of the Old City of Jerusalem are the visible layer of accumulated constructions of different civilizations, each representing distinctive architectural styles and building techniques. This unusual collection of human history makes Jerusalem a rich living museum. But the Old City also suffers from social, economic and institutional decline, environmental degradation, physical dilapidation of buildings and harsh political and security conditions.

The OCJRP's approach to revitalization has considered the socio-economic factors as well as the physical environmental conditions within the valuable cultural and religious context of Jerusalem. The main objectives of the Revitalization Plan that is the blueprint for its work are to improve the living conditions for Jerusalem residents and rehabilitate their homes while protecting the city's valuable heritage. Additionally, it aims to create a suitable economic and service base to attract selected social and economic groups to live and invest in the Old City. The four components of the comprehensive OCJRP Program are: rehabilitation and restoration, training, documentation and community outreach.

1. Rehabilitation and Restoration

The Program identifies, researches, designs, contracts and supervises the implementation of each restoration or rehabilitation project. OCJRP Office works with property owners and managers, residents and the community at large to meet their specific needs. It adapts historic buildings for community use, restores houses or structures and ensures that international standards and conventions are applied in all stages of the restoration work it supervises.

More than $1.8 million was disbursed for rehabilitation and restoration projects in 2003. These projects included the rehabilitation and restoration phase 4 of the 600-year-old Dar al-Aytam al- Islamiyyeh complex and its magnificent Mamluk stone facades, al-Madrassa al-Manjikiyeh, al-Madrassah al- Ashrafiyyeh, the Old City building housing the Community Work Center of Al-Quds University, the Islamic Museum and the adaptive reuse of Al Hawash house into WA Offices in the Old City.

Additionally, OCJRP is carrying out emergency restorations to ensure that historic buildings remain used by the community, and that they provide healthy and safe shelter. Two houses required emergency structural consolidation. Better utilization was made of limited space through redesign. Re-pointing, plastering and rehabilitation of services enhanced the beauty of the building while keeping the historic structure intact.

After the restoration of Al Aqsa Library in 2000 and Al Budeiriyya Library in 2002, OCJRP prepared the interior design and attended to the procurement of furniture and equipment as part of their development plan for both projects.

Suq al-Qattanin, once one of the most beautiful of oriental bazaars, has been badly neglected over the last century and until this year stood dark and practically abandoned. In 2002, OCJRP completed restoring the vaulted roof of the suq and started the restoration of the walls and ceilings of the arcade. In 2003 the team embarked on restoration work of one of its eastern buildings, the Khan Tankaz. The complex dates back to the Mamluk period when Sultan Seif-ed-Din Tankaz ordered it built as a hostel for pilgrims after his visit to Jerusalem in 1327. The link between the Khan and Suq al Qattanin incorporates the offices of Haj & Umra of the Islamic Waqf. Along with a large portal entrance. The two-storey structure surrounding the courtyard provides office space and facilities of the study centre of Al Quds University. The design and tender documents were completed in 2003 and restoration should be completed by mid 2004.

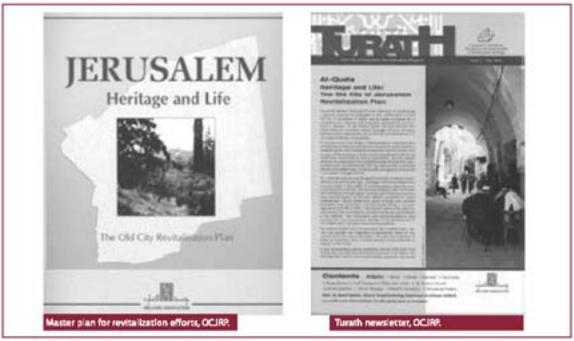

2. Scholarships/Training

A theoretical and practical training program in stone restoration, arranged with the cooperation of visiting experts from the institute of Venice, was completed for 12 architects and engineers including contractors, using the facades of the Mamluk portals of Dar al-Aytam al-Islamiyya as a training and work site. As a follow-up, four architects from the OCJRP technical office and one from the Islamic Awqaf attended advanced restoration technique training courses in Venice during the year.

3. Documentation and Information

OCJRP's GIS specialist continually updated information for Old City buildings and sites during the year, and information became known or changed. The GIS is the core geographically referenced information database for the program, combining many levels and layers of information about sites as well as various topographical maps. Apart from the information related to a complete physical analysis of buildings within the Old City of Jerusalem, some historical information and referencing is also available. Thus, the GIS permits a more comprehensive understanding of the history, current status and future plans of networks and buildings.

An updated English version of the master plan for the revitalization of the Old City of Jerusalem, Jerusalem: Heritage and Life, was published in 2003, following the Arabic version. The plan is based on historical, physical, social and economic surveys of the Old City that were carried out by a multi-sector team of Palestinian experts, taking into consideration current political, legal and administrative constraints.

OCJRP's seventh issue of Turath, the technical newsletter devoted to architectural preservation, was published in 2003, with Ford Foundation funding. The special issue was devoted to architectural heritage of Jerusalem.

4. Community Awareness for Preservation of Historic Sites

The second phase of OCJRP Community Outreach Programme continued with emphasis on community participation in the restoration process.

A special community outreach program began implementation simultaneously with the comprehensive rehabilitation project of the Ribat Ala' al-Din al-Baseer, one of the oldest pilgrims' hostels in Jerusalem. Most recently, since the late Ottoman period the complex has been home to the Palestinian African community. The community relations aspect of the project is considered crucial to the successful restoration of the complex. OCJRP will be working with the community to rehabilitate the structures, and to upgrade and maintain facilities, including its front façade, retreats and courtyards, to provide healthy residential and community space.

Monographs on cultural and historical sites of interest were prepared and published for distribution to schools and community organizations with emphasis on the youth. Other activities in 2003 included field tours of historical sites in the Old City of Jerusalem, workshops and meetings with the community, the production and staging of a play and preparation for the implementation of an awareness raising program on heritage within schools in the Old City of Jerusalem.

Restoration and Rehabilitation projects

190 000

Comprehensive Restoration and Rehabilitation of Dar al-Aytam al-Islamlyya Complex

Project Total Budget: $3 million Disbursed in 2003: $658,000

Built around 1388 A.D. as the palace of Sitt Tunshuq al-Muzaffariyya, today the 8,000-squaremeter built complex, which neighbors the Haram al-Sharif, houses an orphanage for boys, industrial trade school and factories, as well as an academic school and Awqaf offices. The monumental complex is one of the largest in the Old City and shows the architectural transition from the Mamluk era to the Ottoman, with construction dating from the 14th century and extending over a 150-year period. Today, it houses an academic school for 650 boys, an industrial training school with a print shop, bookbinding and carpentry workshops, a boarding domitory, an Islamic traditional soup kitchen and a small mosque.

Project: The restoration and rehabilitation of the structure is on-going through five phases, and is expected to be completed in mid-2004. The upgrading of infrastructure of the 600-year-old building now used as an industrial School was completed in 2003. This included renewing the sewage networks, water lines, electricity, communications network and rain drainage systems, and involved some large-scale underground work.

The restoration of the three monumental Mamluk entrance portals was also completed in 2003, with technical assistance from the Institute of Venice. The portals are built in typical Mamluk style with stones of alternating colors, and are decorated with arches, carved geometric designs and Arabic inscriptions.

In 2003, the 4th phase started with the restoration of the orphans dormitory located on the upper floor of the main Mamiuk palace. The work included the restoration of the main magnificent reception hall and a number of rooms leading to this hall that are now used for various activities such as a music room, a gym, a T.V. room, archive, clinic and a prayer hall. The dormitory which was located in the main hall was moved to the space behind it where a two-storey structure surrounds a courtyard, thus giving the students more privacy, better accommodation and more facilities.

Restoration of al-Madrassa al-Manjikiyeh

Project Total Budget: $300,000 Disbursed in 2003: $235,833

The Madrassa is situated in the west part of al-Haram al-Sharif at Bab al-Majlis. It was built in 762 A.H./1360 A.D. by Emir Sayfuddîn Mounjik. The beautiful Mamluk madrassa is now the offices of the Department of Islamic Waqf.

Project: Restoration was completed in 2003 and began with the insulation and tiling of the roof and the dome as well as restoration and rehabilitation of all offices located in the 3-floor building and installation of wood windows. Also, a complete heating and cooling system was installed.

Restoration and Adaptive Re-use of al-Madrassa al-Ashrafiyah

Project Total Budget: $750,000 Disbursed in 2003: $128,676

Al-Madrassa al-Ashrafiyya was built in the late fifteenth century by the Mamluk Sultan al-Ashraf Sayf al-Din Qaytbay and is the only structure which was ever allowed to be extended past the Riwaq, or arcade, onto the plaza of al-Haram al-Sharif. Known as the "third jewel" in al-Haram, it is situated in a prime location close to the Dome of the Rock.

Project: This Mamiluk structure underwent a first phase of restoration in 2001, and was to be equipped for environmental control to house the rare manuscript library of al-Aqsa. A "fund in trust" agreement was signed with UNESCO for the training of staff and purchase of the specialized equipment needed for the establishment of the manuscript restoration laboratory, to be arranged by UNESCO. The final stage of restoration and equipment installation was started in 2003 after the lifting of restrictions by the Israeli occupation authorities that had prevented the necessary material and equipment from being brought into the building for two years. The work is going slowly due to continued restriction and the project is expected to be completed by the end of 2004.

Restoration of the Community Work Center, al-Quds University

Project Total Budget: $150,000 Disbursed in 2003: $93,007

A historic structure located near the entrance to Suq al-Qattanin, possibly of Byzantine origins and later used as a Crusader church, tannery and carpentry, had been an Old City eyesore. The building was cleaned and underwent heavy structural consolidation. The building's supportive arches were in such bad condition that stones from the top of the supporting arches were found lying on the floor. A special blend of lime mortar, incorporating ancient ingredients and methods, was used to reintegrate these fallen stones back into their proper places and to consolidate the rest of the crumbling building. The building, whose renovation was completed in 2003, is currently serving a useful community role as the al-Quds University Center for Social Work Counseling.

Restoration of the Islamic Museum

Project Total Budget: $235,000 Disbursed in 2003: $110,182

The Museum is located within al-Haram al-Sharif, to the west of al-Aqsa mosque, in two buildings dating back one millennium. Established by the Higher Islamic Council of Palestine in 1922, the Islamic museum is the oldest museum in the city. Work in the museum had been postponed since August 2001 due to the Israeli authorities' decision to ban building materials and deny the Islamic Waqf and OCJRP workers access to the site. The much-needed rehabilitation of its roof was finally able to be completed in 2003. Also, OCJRP began the drying phase for the interior of the museum and rebuilt the western wall, which had partially collapsed due to damage from dampness that was anticipated 3 years ago, but delay in carrying out the repair, due to Israeli obstruction, aggravated the building's condition.

IV. Institution Building and Community Development

The ultimate aim of WA interventions is to develop the community and respond to different unmet needs. Consequently, institution building and community development is a theme that cuts across many of its projects, even emergency projects. For some, however, it is the prime and specific focus.

In 2003, PNGO project interventions amounted to more than $1 million and covered infrastructural improvement for communities/societies, construction of child centers and nurseries, vocational training for women, training of professionals and overall institutional capacity building with more than 60 beneficiary organizations. In addition, institution building projects implemented by the Programs and Projects Department at a total value of $420,000 included renovation of senior citizen's houses, establishment of community multi-activity buildings, youth and cultural centers, clubs and public parks.

The Palestinian NGO Project (Phase II)

2001-2005 Partnership, NGO Development and Sector Support

Following the success of Phase I, the World Bank approved a three-year phase 2 of the Project (PNGOII) (2001-2004), with a budget of $22 million, and in view of political exigencies, approved an extension of one year (to mid August 2005).

In 2003, approximately $15 million was allocated for the Development Grants Program, the Partnership Grants Program and the Emergency Program, and $1.3 million to the Sector Support Program. From this total allocated sum of $16.3 million, $7.6 million has already been disbursed, i.e., 48% of the allocated budget. The number of projects that have been implemented until now are 6 Partnership Grants Projects with 89 partner NGOs, 19 Development Grants projects and 82 Emergency Program projects, in addition to the Counseling Center for Women in Difficult Circumstances. Four important projects were implemented within the Sector Support Program in 2003: supporting NGO networks and unions, preparations for designing the portal for NGOs in Palestine, helping civil society institutions review their administrative systems, and awareness raising campaigns on tax and customs exemption procedures for civil society institutions.

Partnership Grants Program

This program awards grants for the implementation of service delivery projects by lead NGOs in partnership with smaller ones. The projects target poor and marginalized communities through smaller projects that address the needs of populations underserved due to their geographic location, in addition to population groups who are vulnerable due to their social or physical limitations.

With the approval of the grant for the Youth Development Department at the Arab Studies Society in partnership with ANERA for a sum of $409,000, six partnership grants became operational, reaching a total sum of $5.47 million. The program targets a number of sectors: youth, agriculture, formal education, primary health care, early childhood, water resource management and rural development. In 2003, the total sum disbursed was $1,917,552 or 36% of the allocated budget.

Development Grants Program

Nineteen development grants were approved by the Supervisory Board for a total of $3.16m in funding, distributed as follows: (3) projects in Jerusalem $574,000, (6) projects in Gaza $783,000 and (10) projects in the West Bank $1,802,453. The total sum of disbursements in 2003 reached $1,323,028 or 41% of allocated sums. By December 2003, 12 plans for supporting capacity building activities for civil society institutions were placed; they aspire to improve NGOs' performance in offering services to the community and strengthening the impact and sustainability of their projects.

Counseling Center for Women in Difficult Circumstances

The Italian government contributed $2.5 million to establish a center in Bethlehem aiming at providing support, therapy, advocacy, empowerment and vocational training services to Palestinian females subjected to domestic violence, focusing on prevention programs aimed at reducing violence against Palestinian girls and women. Palestinian and Italian NGOs submitted project proposals in early 2003. Following a process of appraisal and negotiations, the PMO signed a partnership grant agreement in December 2003 with the Women's Center for Legal Aid and Counseling (the Palestinian partner) and Differenza Donna (the Italian partners). The Palestinian and Italian partner NGOs are responsible for implementing the technical assistance component of the project, which is expected to begin January 2004 at a cost of $1.05 million.

The center will promote an enhanced role and status for women in society, raise awareness concerning gender discrimination and advocate for women's empowerment. The program will also provide loans, counseling services for abused women and support therapy and vocational training for this marginalized group of the society. It will be established in cooperation with the Palestinian Ministry of Social Affairs and the Ministry of Women's Affairs.

The PMO is directly responsible for the construction of the center in Bethlehem. An amount of US$1.3 million has been allocated for the construction, furnishing and equipping of the center. The PMO contracted the services of PETRA/ MIMAR who is developing the concept design of the project with the assistance provided from an Italian expert in the design of shelters.

Urgent Development Grants

In March 2003, the Supervisory Board decided to use unallocated funds from core grants programs for a new Urgent Development Grants Program. These target particularly poor and marginalized communities in the north and south of the West Bank. After advertisement, evaluation, decision, and approval from the Supervisory Board and the World Bank, 17 NGOs have been approved for a total of $1,552,134.

Emergency Grants

The Emergency Grants Program, which was the Project's response to the violence and deterioration that hit the West Bank and Gaza after the Intifada began, is almost two thirds completed. The components funded by the Islamic Development Bank and the UK Department for International Development (DfiD) have proceeded to 99.85% and 93.40% disbursement respectively. 79,615 person days of employment have been created. The third donor, the Italian Cooperation Office of the Italian Consulate, is funding 24 NGOs with a total of $1.5 million. This contract was signed on 30 July 2003, and 16 NGOs are currently operational with over $242,027 disbursed.

In addition, an agreement was signed with the Agence Francaise de Developpement (AFD) in July 2003 for the amount of €5 million for the Emergency Employment Generation Program in Gaza.

Sector Support Program

The Sector Support Program, which emerged as a result of the recommendations from Phase I, was designed to respond more substantially to the broader needs of the NGO sector. It promotes strategic planning and operations so that NGOs can better meet the basic needs of the poor and marginalized. A special 5-member committee was established that includes representatives of the NGO sector, civil society organizations, the Commission of NGO Affairs and the PMO. Five studies were prepared that deal with defining needs and priorities of the organizations, unions, networks and the Commission for the coming years. The Committee approved the plan of the Sector Support Program and the 2003 budget was as follows:

Sector Support Program, 2003

Networking, information exchange and evaluation of civil society	$361,000
Placing Development policies for civil society	$351,500
Supporting civil society's financial continuity	$292,000
Supporting civil society networking capabilities	$450,000
Total	$1,312,750

Bidding documents were floated in the local newspapers for the NGO portal and a team of technical consultants are studying the 11 tenders received. In addition, an agreement was signed with the Commission for NGO Affairs for holding awareness raising workshops on civil society tax and customs exemptions and the publication of a handbook on the subject. Four agreements were signed with NGO networks and the Commission for a sum of $365,250 to build their capabilities following their needs assessments.

V. Emergency Programs

During 2003, Israeli occupation measures, such as curfews, movement restrictions, extension of the separation wall and expansion of the network of Jewish settlements, created new obstacles for the population in accessing jobs and necessary social services. With average per capita income falling by half since 1999, many more households have become pauperized as a direct result of the occupation policies and restrictions, and for many, humanitarian assistance has been crucial for meeting basic needs. The sheer force of military attacks and deliberate destruction of infrastructure have also hindered efforts of civil society organizations to aid the population, so that providers of services have also required emergency assistance themselves.

Welfare Association sought to respond to the increasingly urgent needs of the population, while linking emergency projects to a longer term development perspective. WA programs developed and supported emergency improvements to health care, food production and job opportunities for Palestinian communities, especially in hard-hit localities. Programs benefiting both individuals and institutions were implemented by local NGOs, councils and municipalities. The total sum of WA disbursements for emergency and relief programs and projects was almost $19 million in 2003.

Some of the direct relief and humanitarian aid efforts supported by WA during the year were: emergency employment to raise household income, food assistance, tuition credits for university students, relief for families experiencing social hardship, rehabilitation services for the disabled and housing assistance for families whose homes were damaged or destroyed. These programs benefited some of the poorest, most marginalized and needy families in the West Bank and Gaza, who had suffered injury or loss of livelihood or shelter due to Israeli occupation policies and practices. WA also provided urban and rural medical and rehabilitation centers with medical supplies, equipment and service support.

The emergency projects have been primarily funded through special appeals for individual contributions as well as programs sponsored by international donors. Part of WA's methodology in this field is the rapid identification of beneficiaries and rapid disbursement to relieve communities in distress.

1. Emergency Rehabilitation Services

Of the 26,000 Palestinians who have been injured between October 2000 and December 2003, many suffered permanent or long-term disabilities, loss or severe impairment in function of a limb or organ, sight or hearing. The seriously injured required extensive treatment as well as physical and occupational rehabilitation, in addition to counseling in order to deal with their disabilities.

Control of the contro

Welfare Association disbursed $311,710 for emergency services and support for both health and rehabilitation of disabilities sectors in 2003. Twelve organizations have been supported that work closely with injured and disabled Palestinians, many of whom are children. This aid was used to sustain community-based rehabilitation services (physiotherapy, occupational therapy and counseling), supply of medical aids and equipment loan programs, hospital and outreach services, adaptation of houses for accessibility for disabled persons, and primary and emergency rehabilitation care infrastructure and services.

The PNGO project also had substantial emergency input into the rehabilitation field. Fifteen institutions on the West Bank and the Gaza Strip received nearly $1 million in support of a variety of activities including: construction and operation of specialized rehabilitation centers and services, especially for the deaf, blind and those with cerebral palsy; improving quality of services for profoundly disabled women; promoting early intervention programs; and expanding educational and employment opportunities for the disabled.

2. Support for Higher Education

Poor employment prospects have encouraged more youths in Palestine to seek higher education, but the decrease in household incomes due to deteriorating economic conditions means that fewer students could afford higher education costs. Students became hard- pressed to pay tuition fees that universities depend on for 60% of their budgets. To respond to this crisis in higher education, Arab Funding Institutions and OPEC funded a 2-year $20-million student loans and assistance program managed by WA in the form of a revolving credit fund benefiting both students and universities. The program covers about 8% of the universities' annual operating budget during the 2002-2003 and 2003-2004 academic in years. In 2003, $11,428, 354 was disbursed emergency aid for higher education.

During 2003, a total of $9.4 million was disbursed as student loans, benefiting 52,600 students, 46% of whom were females. The funding covered 47% of the total sumof fees of the student population at 11 universities and 22 community colleges, and 15% of staff salaries. WA's role was to monitor and supervise the implementation of the program in coordination with the Ministry of Higher Education and ensure that proper criteria was used to select needy students for loan guarantees, as well as to build capacity of the Student Loan Fund. A survey conducted by WA indicated that the loans had a positive impact as 11% of the students who were potential drop-outs were able to remain at their universities and 60% of the students whose families were completely without income benefited from the program.

A secondary impact of the program on the families of student beneficiaries was that families could redirect their resources, otherwise spent on fees and living expenses, to other urgent family needs. The program resulted also in strengthening the relationship between the MOEHE and higher education institutes as well as impacting the market with additional funds.

3. Health

a. Emergency Provision of Medical Equipment and Supplies

Purchase and distribution of medicines and medical equipment and Supplies to hospitals and health centers was coordinated by Welfare Association, and supported by funding from a number of sources.

Medical equipment was provided to 92 hospitals and medical centers in most of the Palestinian territories through a procurement process supervised by representatives from the Palestinian Ministry of Health, Red Crescent Society, Union of Medical Relief Committees and WA. As a result, agreements were signed with 11 companies for a total sum of $6 million in order to purchase urgently-needed equipment for 31 hospitals and 61 rural health centers. In 2003, $3.1 million was disbursed for this purpose.

In addition, grant agreements were signed totaling $5 million and implementation plans drawn for three major projects subsidized by the Kuwait Fund for Arab Development for constructing, furnishing and equipping new buildings for the Abu Rayya Rehabilitation Center in Ramallah, the Arab Society for Rehabilitation in Beit Jala and al-Wafa Rehabilitation Hospital in Gaza. As part of the project, medical equipment was also provided to the Head Injury Department at the Arab Society in Beit Jala and 9 specialists were employed to operate it. Two of these specialists received extra training on the new equipment in Jordan.

b. Hospitals and Primary Health Care Centers

172 hospitals and health centers were provided with medical supplies and equipment and a contribution was made towards the treatment of 15,600 needy patients. A second floor of the Sheikh Zayed Hospital in Ramallah was also funded and completed.

In addition, in order to enhance the medical services rendered to children, a memorandum of understanding was signed by WA, the Palestinian Economic Council for Development and Reconstruction (PECDAR), and the Palestinian Ministry of Health in order to prepare for building the "Bahrain Children's Hospital" in Ramallah, funded by the Bahrain Committee for the Support of the Palestinian People.

Special emphasis was placed on upgrading or establishing emergency units of hospitals (al-Ahli and al-Awdeh Hospitals in Caza) as well as emergency units run by the Patient's Friends Society in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

The PNGO project disbursed around $700,000 to 10 organizations in support of primary health care infrastructure and services, establishment of clinics, maintenance of health units, construction for new services and training of professionals.

Overall, support for health was characterized by a large constituency of beneficiaries (over 150 institutions) both governmental and non-governmental as well as the Palestine Red Crescent Society, with a wide range of disbursements in 2003 ranging from less than $5,000 for smaller projects/NGOs to more than $400,000 for larger hospitals.

4. Humanitarian Family Support

Special individual relief programs were devised to assist needy families to cope with the loss of income, breadwinners and housing. WA continued to raise funds and channel donations in 2003 for families in financial support, food supplies and in-kind contributions.

The Family-to-Family Program provided aid by granting a basic subsistence income through sponsorships of families. Six hundred poor families referred for assistance by local charitable committees benefited by receiving $300 each from the direct relief program which is managed and monitored by Welfare Association. In addition, 1,100 families were allocated $1,200 each and support was given to find shelter for 50 families whose houses were demolished in Nablus. In Rafah $120,000 was distributed to 600 families whose houses were demolished during the September and October 2003 incursions in the Rafah border strip, while 50 families were housed in rented houses until their damaged homes were renovated or rebuilt.

5. Employment Generation

a. Emergency Employment Project (Al-Aqsa Humanitarian Fund)

Welfare Association's al-Aqsa Humanitarian Fund supported emergency employment generation programs in which small-scale construction projects implemented by NGOs employed out-of-work laborers while building community assets. Overall, the program supervised 35 NGO projects at a value of $825,000 and generated over 22,000 work days for unemployed workers in areas of high unemployment. The buildings that were constructed or finished amounted to approximately 9,000 sq. meters of completed construction. The projects are expected to have the impact of expanding NGO services within various communities.

In addition to health centers, playgrounds, a 7,000-person capacity football stadium, and women's embroidery and school sweater knitting projects, 45 houses were rehabilitated for disabled persons, and the Disabled Loan Center of the Union of Medical Relief Committees in Hebron was renovated. Its social workers received 4 training courses in the fields of disability and rehabilitation.

b. Emergency Employment Generation Project (United Palestinian Appeal/USAID)

Through a USAID grant of $2.7 million to United Palestinian Appeal (UPA), Welfare Association implemented an 18-month program in the West Bank and Gaza. The project began in September 2002 and is expected to generate 66,000 workdays. The EEGP was developed to generate income for laborers who have become unemployed due to the prevailing movement restrictions, and the resulting economic crisis in the occupied territories.

The program supports 55 small-scale construction and renovation projects that are carried out by Palestinian community organizations in areas of high unemployment. Area policy of local procurement will also give an added boost to local economies. Projects were selected to build community assets such as health clinics, kindergartens, public spaces, and community activities centers. The total sum disbursed for projects in 2003 was $1.4 million (73% of the total fund) and 44,000 job opportunities were provided. Five project staff and a consulting engineer ensure quality implementation, with Welfare Association staff providing indirect support for the program.

c. Houses and infrastructure Rehabilitation project

As part of the $4 million House Rehabilitation Project funded by the Arab funds, supervised WA and implemented by the Palestinian Ministry of Public Works, 23 tenders were approved with a total value of $904,000 to rehabilitate and rebuild 2,890 houses in various areas. Eighteen contracts were signed in 2003 (9 in each of the West Bank and Gaza) with contractors. In addition, 7 tenders for the $7 million Infrastructure Rehabilitation Project (also funded by the Arab funds, supervised by WA and implemented by the Palestinian Economic Council for Development and Reconstruction (PECDAR)) were also prepared. Full-scale implementation of those two projects will occur during 2004.

Employment generation was also a main cross-cutting theme for a large number of activities implemented by the PNGO project ranging from infrastructure development for KGs to health centers and social service institutions and house rehabilitation as well as agricultural works. The PNGO disbursed approximately $2.7 million for these projects in 2003.

6. Agricultural Relief: Replanting Trees in destroyed land

More than 1 million productive trees were uprooted from September 2000 until March 2004, trees that once covered 63,000 dunums in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. The land itself is being stripped by Israeli military tanks and buildozers in operations that are destroying present and future prospects for poor farmers. The targeted areas are a djacent to settlements and along borders that are constantly being "thickened" by dispossessing Palestinian farmers. In 2003, the building of the Separation Wall cut off hundreds of thousands of dunums of land --- reaching up to 22% --- from the rest of the West Bank; it has already destroyed an estimated 100,000 trees in its path.

Welfare Association continued to cooperate with agricultural societies working in rural areas to help poor farmers replant devastated land with fruit trees and repair destroyed irrigation systems. The PNGO project contributed around $0.5m towards agricultural relief benefiting 10 organizations and a large number of workers.

VI. Assistance for Palestinian Refugees in Lebanon

Palestinian refugees in Lebanon have lived in refugee camps and other temporary shelters since 1948. Palestinian refugees in Lebanon currently registered with the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) exceed 380,000 and represent an estimated 12% of the population of Lebanon. Fifty-six percent live in 12 UNRWA camps dispersed throughout Lebanon and constitute a marginalized refugee community that is excluded from the benefits of citizenry, receiving only the barest assistance from international institutions and organizations.

Several of the problems faced by the Palestinian refugees in Lebanon are similar to those of refugees in other areas, especially in relation to primary health care, education, and relief and social services. In addition to these hardships, shelter conditions in the camps have been deteriorating because of obstacles in some camps to the improvement of shelters to accommodate population growth.

Many refugees depend on UNRWA as the only source of educational, health and other social services, particularly so since access to employment in Gulf countries was curtailed, ending remittances as an important source of income. There is low school enrollment, a high drop-out rate and poor student motivation as a result of over-crowded classrooms, and the limited economic opportunities.

Welfare Association works with camp-based Palestinian NGOs to develop and support quality services in the fields of pre-school and non-formal education, vocational training, health and disability. In 2003, $366,000 was disbursed for 26 projects supporting 5 early childhood projects focusing on KGs, a cultural center, 13 health and disability projects, and 3 vocational training and tutoring programs.

1. Education

a. Early Childhood Education

WA supports an active learning curriculum in KGs by assisting in teacher training courses, providing equipment and materials, rehabilitating kindergarten facilities and grounds, and supporting teachers' salaries in all 12 camps and non-camp population areas. In addition, WA also supports special KGs for disabled children and began a 3-year program, funded by the Community Fund through WA-UK, to promote the inclusion of disabled children into mainstream schools and social activities.

WA members have also contributed $150,000 to establish children's libraries in five refugee camps. In 2003, two more multimedia libraries were officially opened. Approximately 1,250 children benefit from the services provided by these libraries daily.

b. Vocational Training

WA supports a number of specialized Palestinian NGOs that operate vocational training centers for refugee youths. The courses are very popular with young Palestinians who are interested in improving their skills and income, and in aiding their communities. Nursing, business informatics, computer design, mechanics, preschool teacher training, auto mechanics and accounting are some of the long-term courses offered to more than 1,000 trainees a year. In 2003, training courses were also provided to the deaf. WA has assisted the NGOs to upgrade the curriculum, modernize training equipment and offer scholarships to students from families with more difficult social circumstances.

c. Support for Higher Education for Refugees

Welfare Association also supports a revolving fund to assist Palestinian students in meeting the costs of higher education. University graduates are expected to repay the fund after they obtain employment. In 2003, WA disbursed $28,000 to the Palestinian Student Fund.

2. Health

a. Health Care for Needy Patients

Through the Health Care Society, WA supports a special fund that helps poor patients afford proper medical care and oversees its disbursement. The fund provides for needed care to 600 patients annually, including cancer patients and the chronically II, providing for medicines, treatments, surgery and counseling services. $100,000 was disbursed in 2003 to support needy patients through defraying costs of major surgery and treatment for chronic illnesses.

b. Dialysis Treatment for Kidney Patients

A special donation, renewed annually, and made through WA helps to defray the cost of regular dialysis treatment for chronically ill kidney patients at the Palestine Red Crescent Society's al-Hamshari Hospital in Sidon. $75,000 was disbursed in 2003 to provide life-saving dialysis treatments for needy patients. In addition, WA supported the dialysis department at al-Hamshari Hospital by purchasing equipment and medication worth US$ 43,000.

c. Rehabilitation

In 2003, the WA continued to support rehabilitation centers and improve the learning environment for disabled children. Together with WA(UK), WA implements a 3-year $500,000 grant from the Community Fund to improve inclusion of disabled children in education which also supports upgrading of skills of rehabilitation workers.

Resource Development

During 2003, the Welfare Association received a total of $35.1 million from funding institutions and individual contributions for its development and emergency projects. External donations of $28.4 million constituted 80% of total income. Major external donations included $19.8 million from the Arab Fund for Economic and Social Development and other Arab Finance institutions for the WA Emergency Program to support educational institutions. Other major external donations included $6.04 million from the World Bank, $1.76 million from United Palestinian Appeal, $506,000 from the International Youth Foundation and $150,000 from the Kuwait Fund for Arab Economic Development.

Earmarked program donations totaled $5.2 million. The Family to Family program received $1.6 million from Qatar, Lebanon and other donors. The Nablus Schools campaign received $601,000 from its members. In addition, WA received $543,000 from WA(UK), its sister organization in the UK, and $393,000 from the al-Aqsa Humanitarian Fund campaign. $100,000 from Consolidated Contracting Company (CCC) which were allocated to the Center of Excellence for Information Technology at Birzeit University. Other earmarked donations totaled $679,000 from different supporters, including $165,000 for the kidney dialysis project and the Health Care Society in Lebanon and the Arab Cultural Society in Nazareth and $100,000 from Prince Salman Bin Abdul Aziz for the Health Care Society. Commitments to the 2004 calendar and diary campaign reached $116,000 and were earmarked for youth projects in the Old City of Jerusalem.

WA received $1.12 million in unrestricted donations, including $538,000 in annual membership fees and $100,000 from the Arab National Bank.

WA members also contributed $387,000 to the Endowment Fund.

International Support

In 2003, the Welfare Association received funding for 24 projects from a growing number of international and regional donors totaling $25.6 million, indicating a growing number of donations from major Arab and other international donors. The Arab Fund for Economic and Social Development pledged $11 million to support projects for the rehabilitation of damaged buildings and infrastructure. $6.25 million was committed from the French Agency for Development for support of the Emergency Employment Generation Project in Gaza. The Committee for the Support of the Palestinian People in Bahrain approved $5 million for establishing the "Bahrain Children's Hospital" in Ramallah. The European Union, through WA (UK), approved $758,000 for a project aimed at strengthening coordination among East Jerusalem Hospitals.

Sister Organization and Local Committees

Welfare Association's sister organization, WA(UK) raised public and private funds for development and emergency projects and, together with WA, developed a program for "Improved Access to Education for Disabled Palestinian Refugee Children in Lebanon", which was funded by the UK Community Fund with a $500,000 grant over 3 years.

WA (UK) also obtained proposals for the funding of various projects to a number of British donors and obtained $137,000 for tree-planting campaigns, a community center in Gaza and a kindergarten in Lebanon, in addition to emergency projects in Palestine. WA (UK) held its annual fundraising dinner in October 2003 and proceeds of the event reached $500,000, which were allocated to childhood, disability and youth in Palestine and Lebanon.

20th Anniversary Celebration

In December 2003, the Association commemorated its 20th anniversary by organizing the "Palestine Tomorrow" conference and a dinner. Proceeds from the event totaled $266,000.

WA Newsletters

One issue of Tanmiya (English quarterly newsletter) and 3 issues of Taawoun (Arabic quarterly newsletter) were published. Issue number 7 of TURATH (English/Arabic newsletter), and the Old City of Jerusalem Revitalization Plan in English, were also produced. In addition, 5 issues of the e-bulletin were published, the first of which appeared in April 2003.

20th Anniversary Commemoration - "Palestine Tomorrow Conference."

Preparations began for events and special publications early in 2003 to commemorate Welfare Association's 20th anniversary. A 20th anniversary desk book-diary, standing calendar and a pocket calendar were produced especially for the occasion. A film prepared by Mr. Omar Al-Qattan was screened during the commemoration ceremony which took place in early December 2003 in Dubai.

Other activities included the publication of more than 20 brochures, pamphlets and booklets in addition to 46 posters in both Arabic and English on the various programs and projects run by WA. In addition, many articles on the Association's activities and programs were published in newspapers in both English and Arabic. The "Palestine Tomorrow" conference was also covered extensively in Dubai newspapers. Moreover, interviews were held on Dubai satellite channel on the occasion of the 20th anniversary ceremony, during which parts of the film on WA and some video clips were screened.

Independent Auditor's Report

To The General Assembly of Welfare Association, Geneva

We have audited the accompanying statement of financial position of the Welfare Association (Not-for- Profit Organization) as of December 31, 2003 and the related statements of activities and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Welfare Association Management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statements presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Welfare Association (Not-for-Profit Organization) as of December 31, 2003, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards.
